

Use Case

Activity Diagrams

User Stories

As a <type of users>, I want <some goal> so that <some reason>.

As a (learner), I want (a method to take notes) so that (I can focus on the content over formatting).

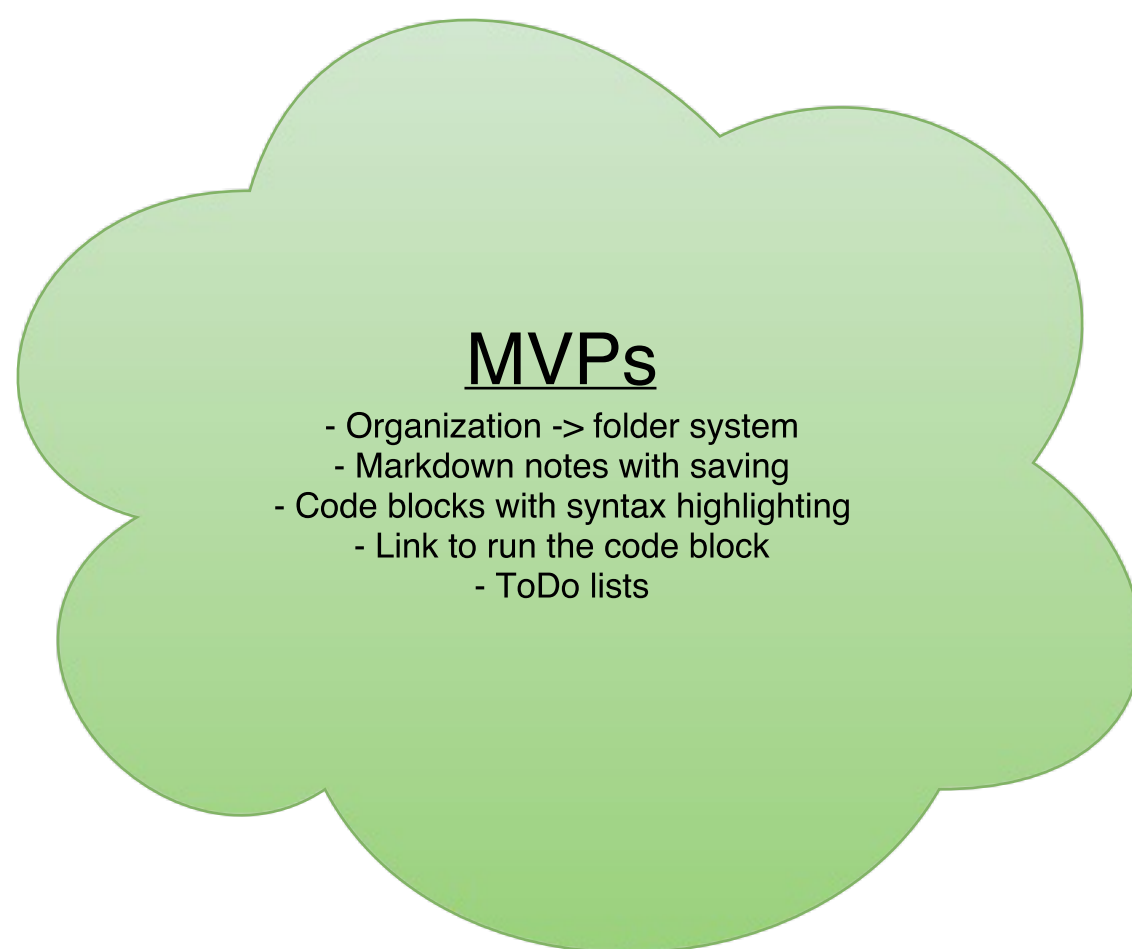

As a (programmer), I want (to combine my code with markdown notes) so that (I can keep organized).

As a (user), I want (my documents to be organized) so that (I can group similar docs together).

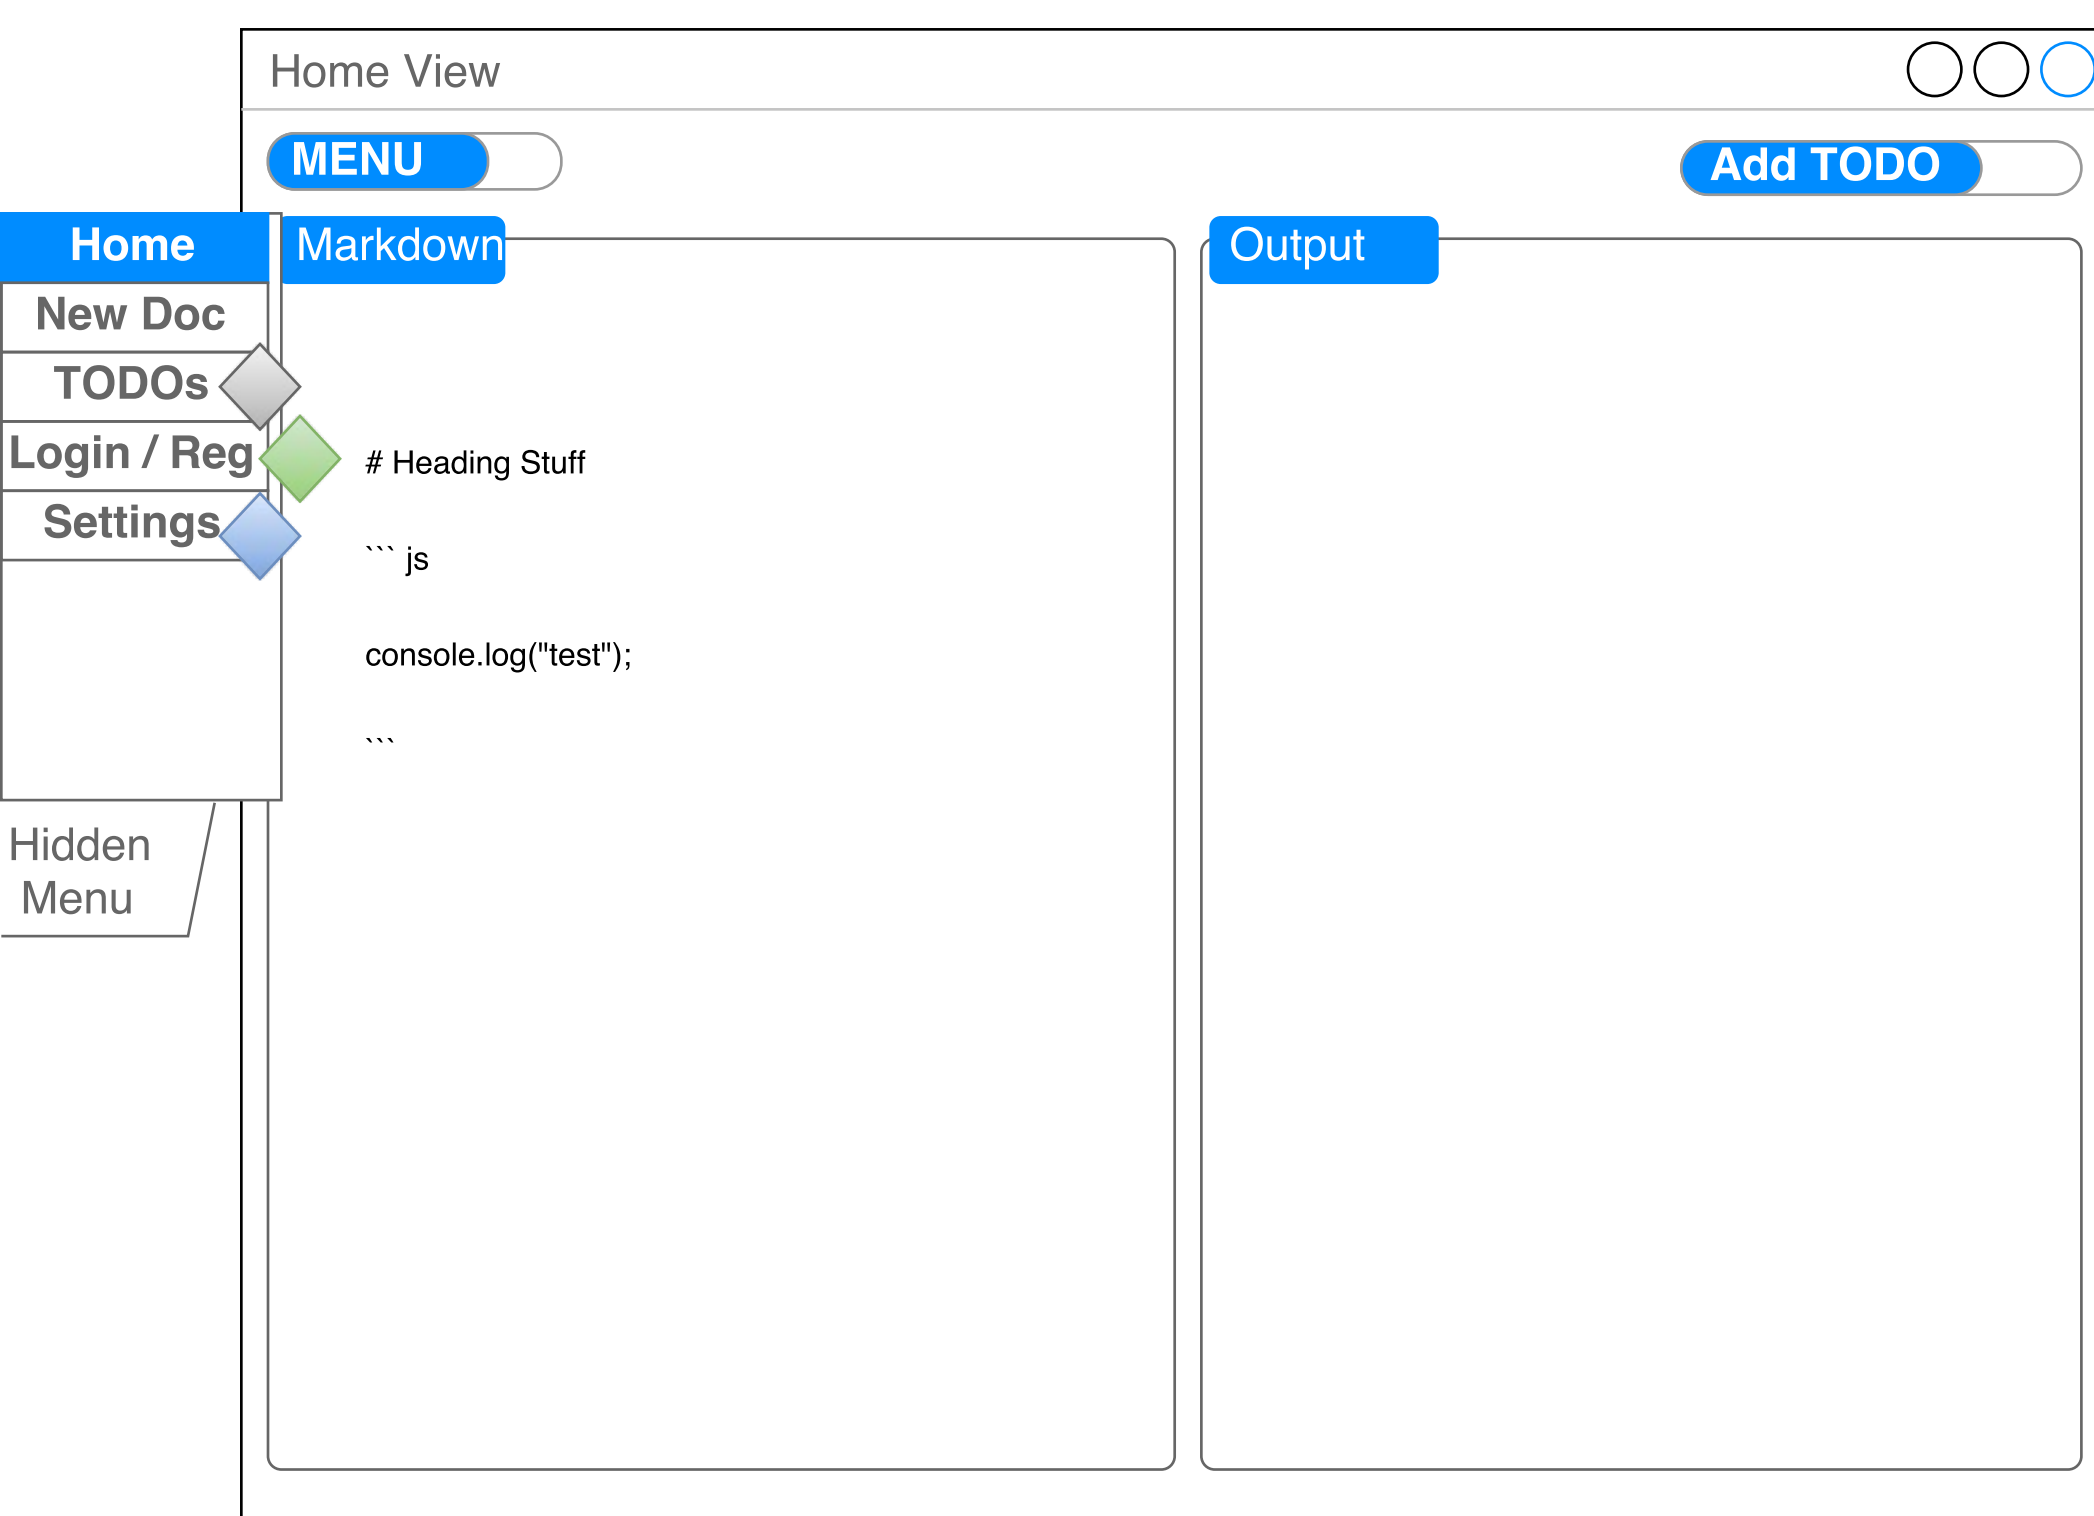

As a (programmer), I want (my code to have syntax highlighting) so that (it is easier to read).

As a (programmer), I want (to be able to run snippets) so that (I can test / learn better).

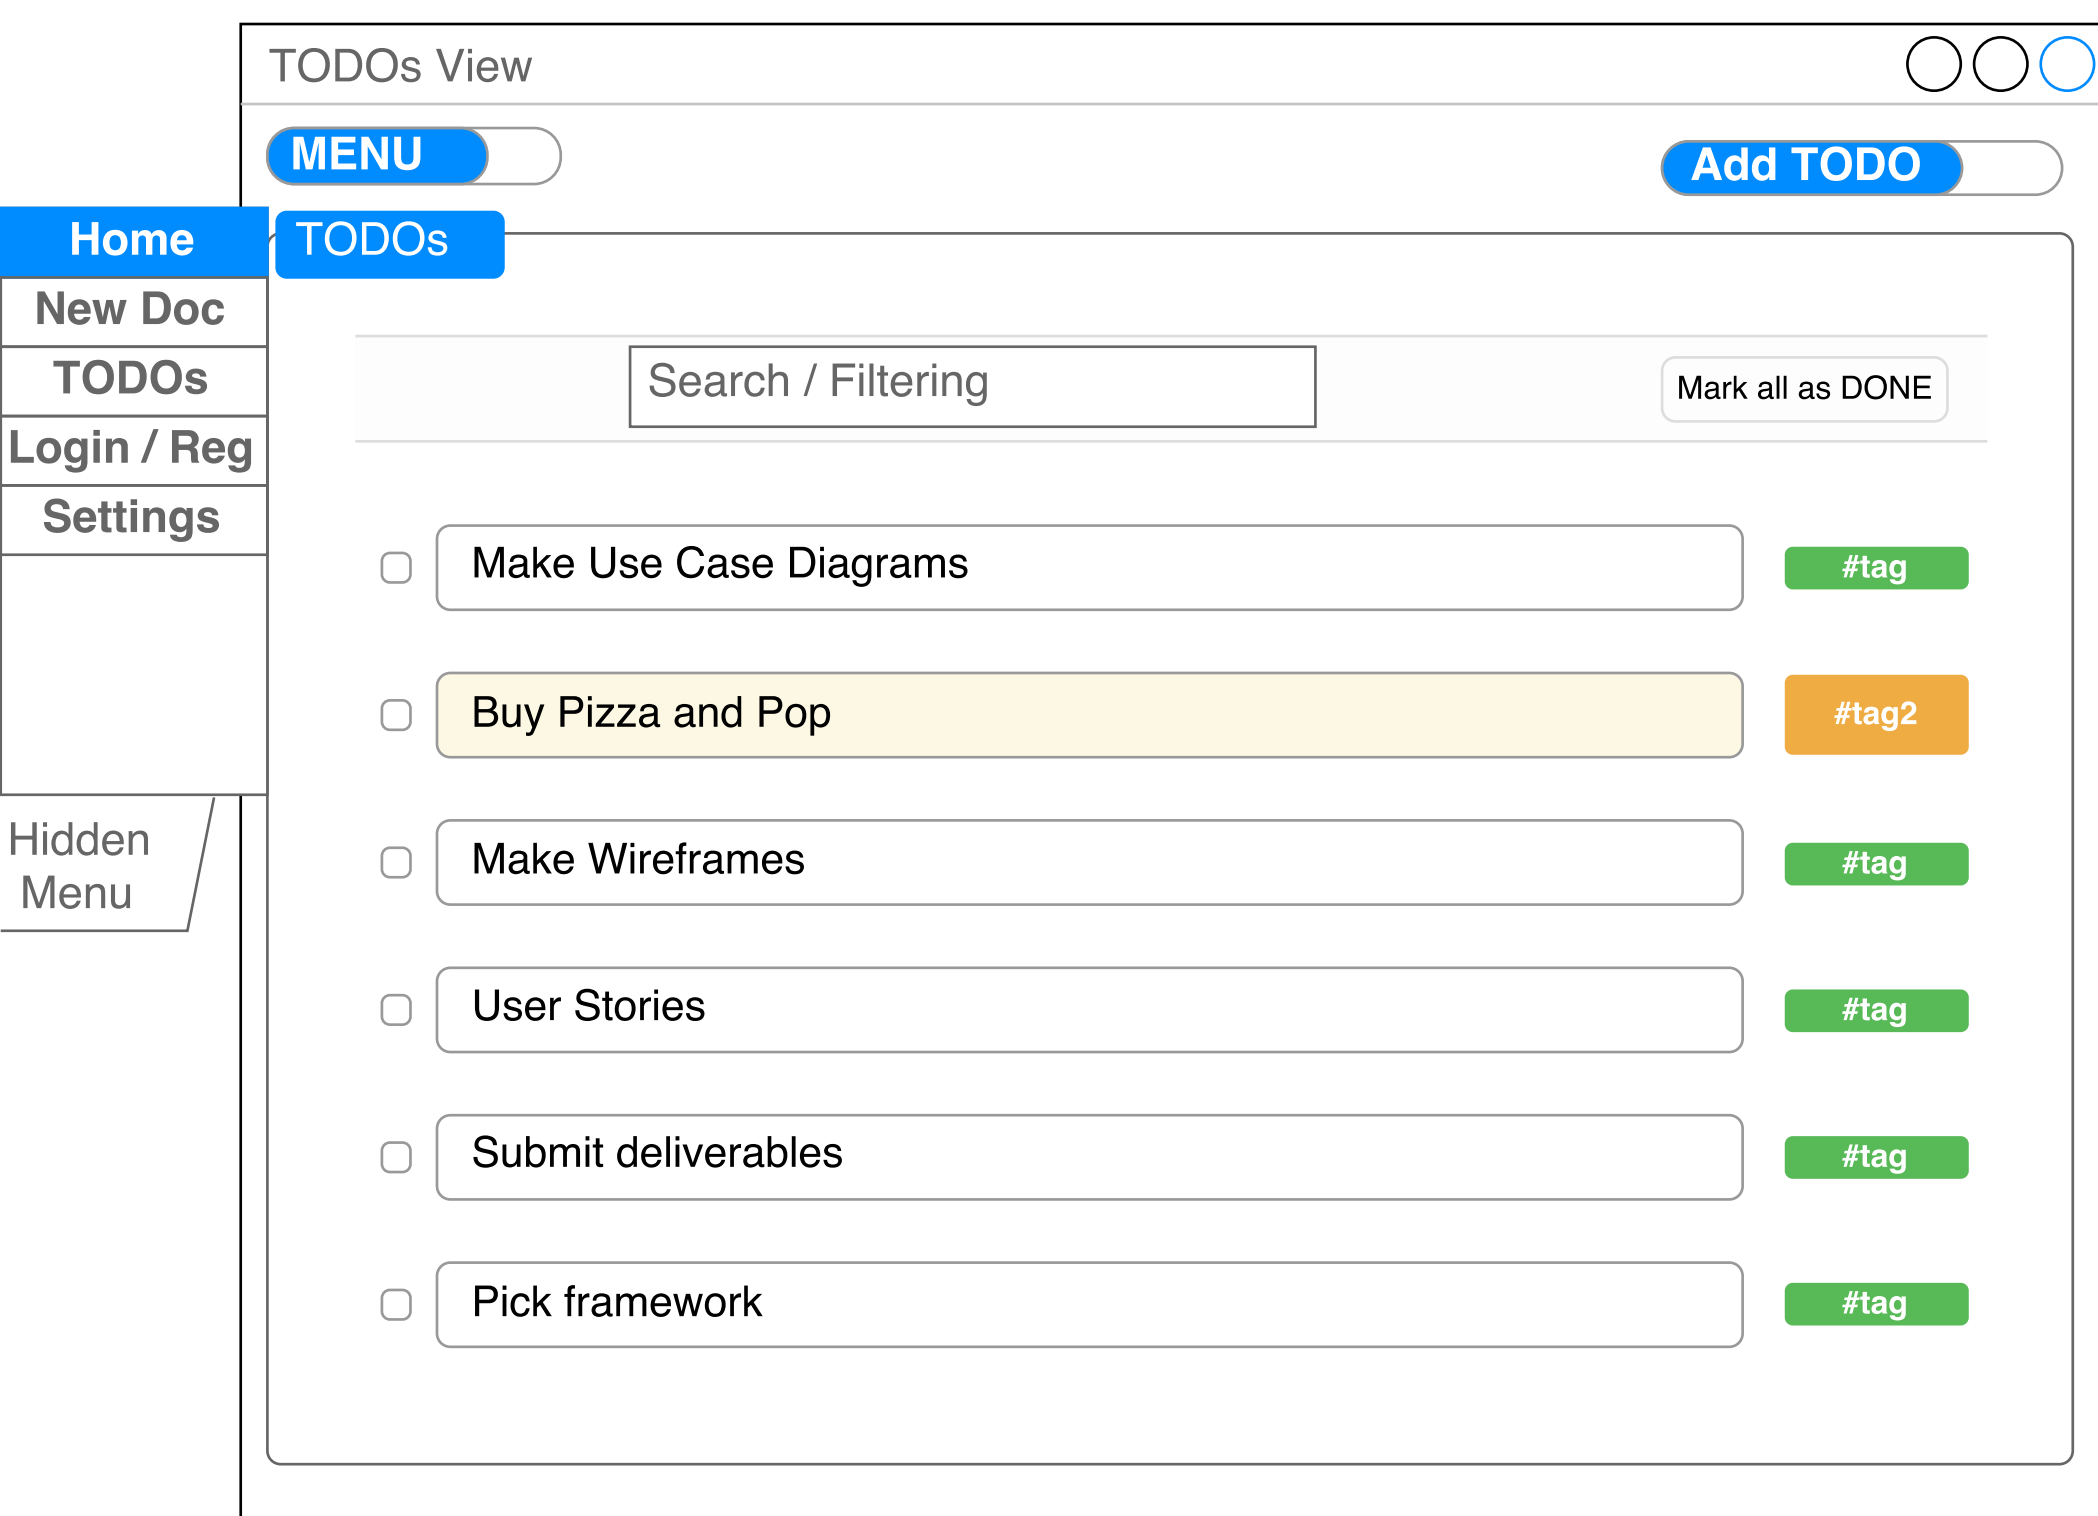

As a (user), I want (an easy way to combine notes with task/todo's) so that (I can be better organized).

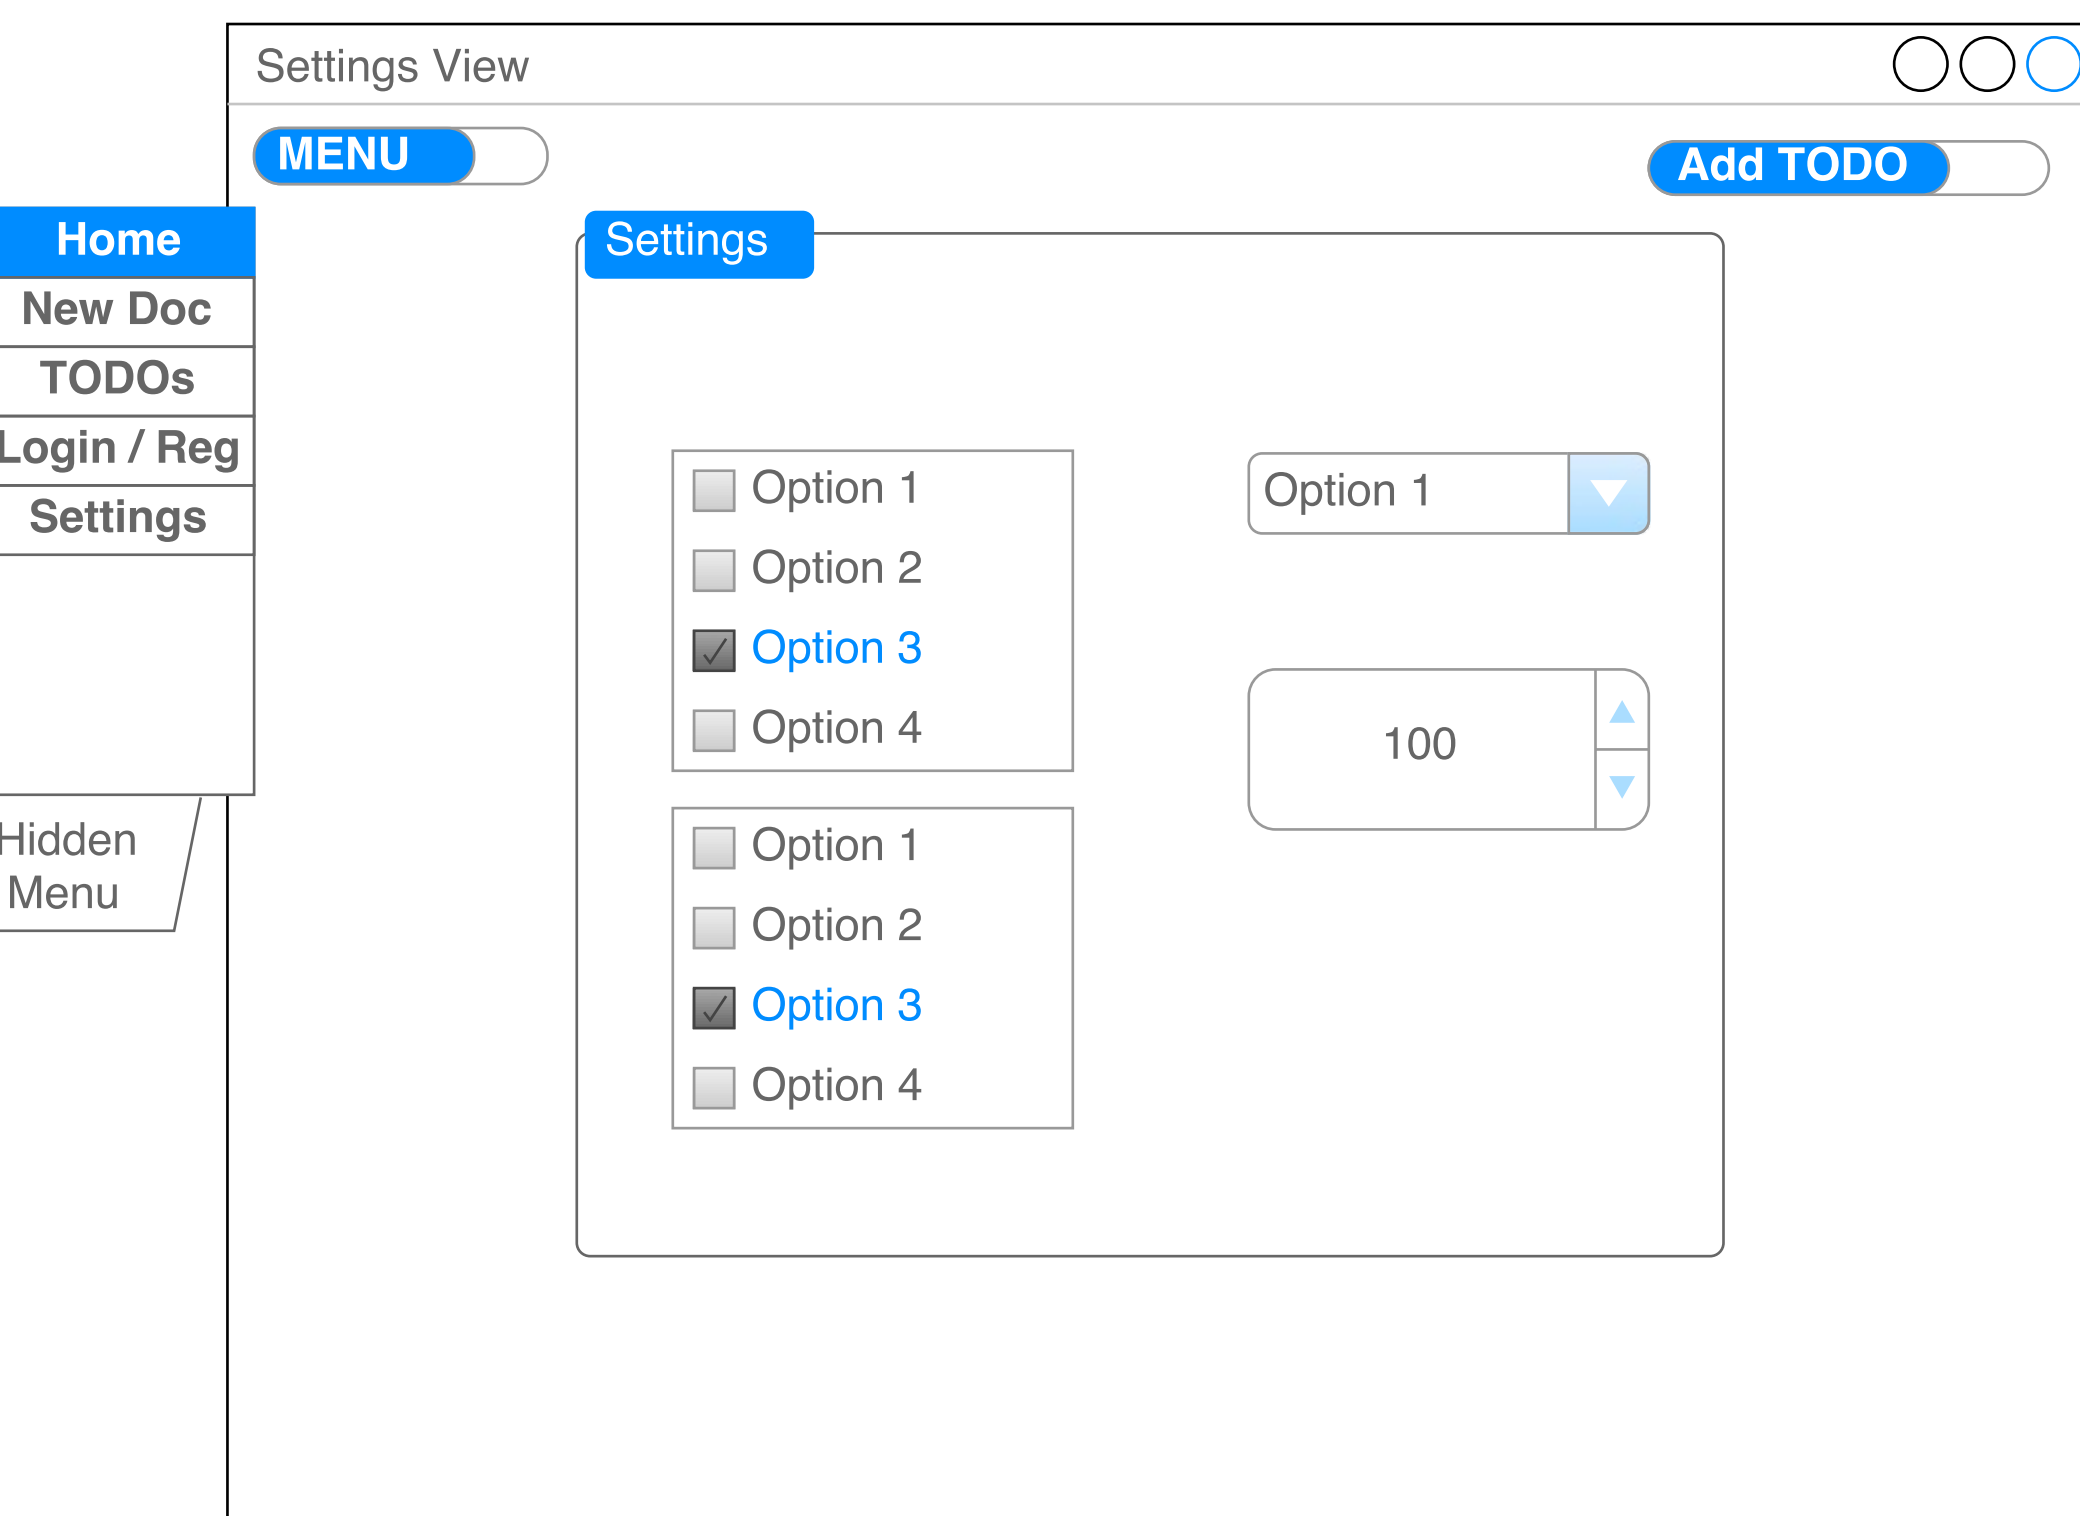

Wireframe - Home Page

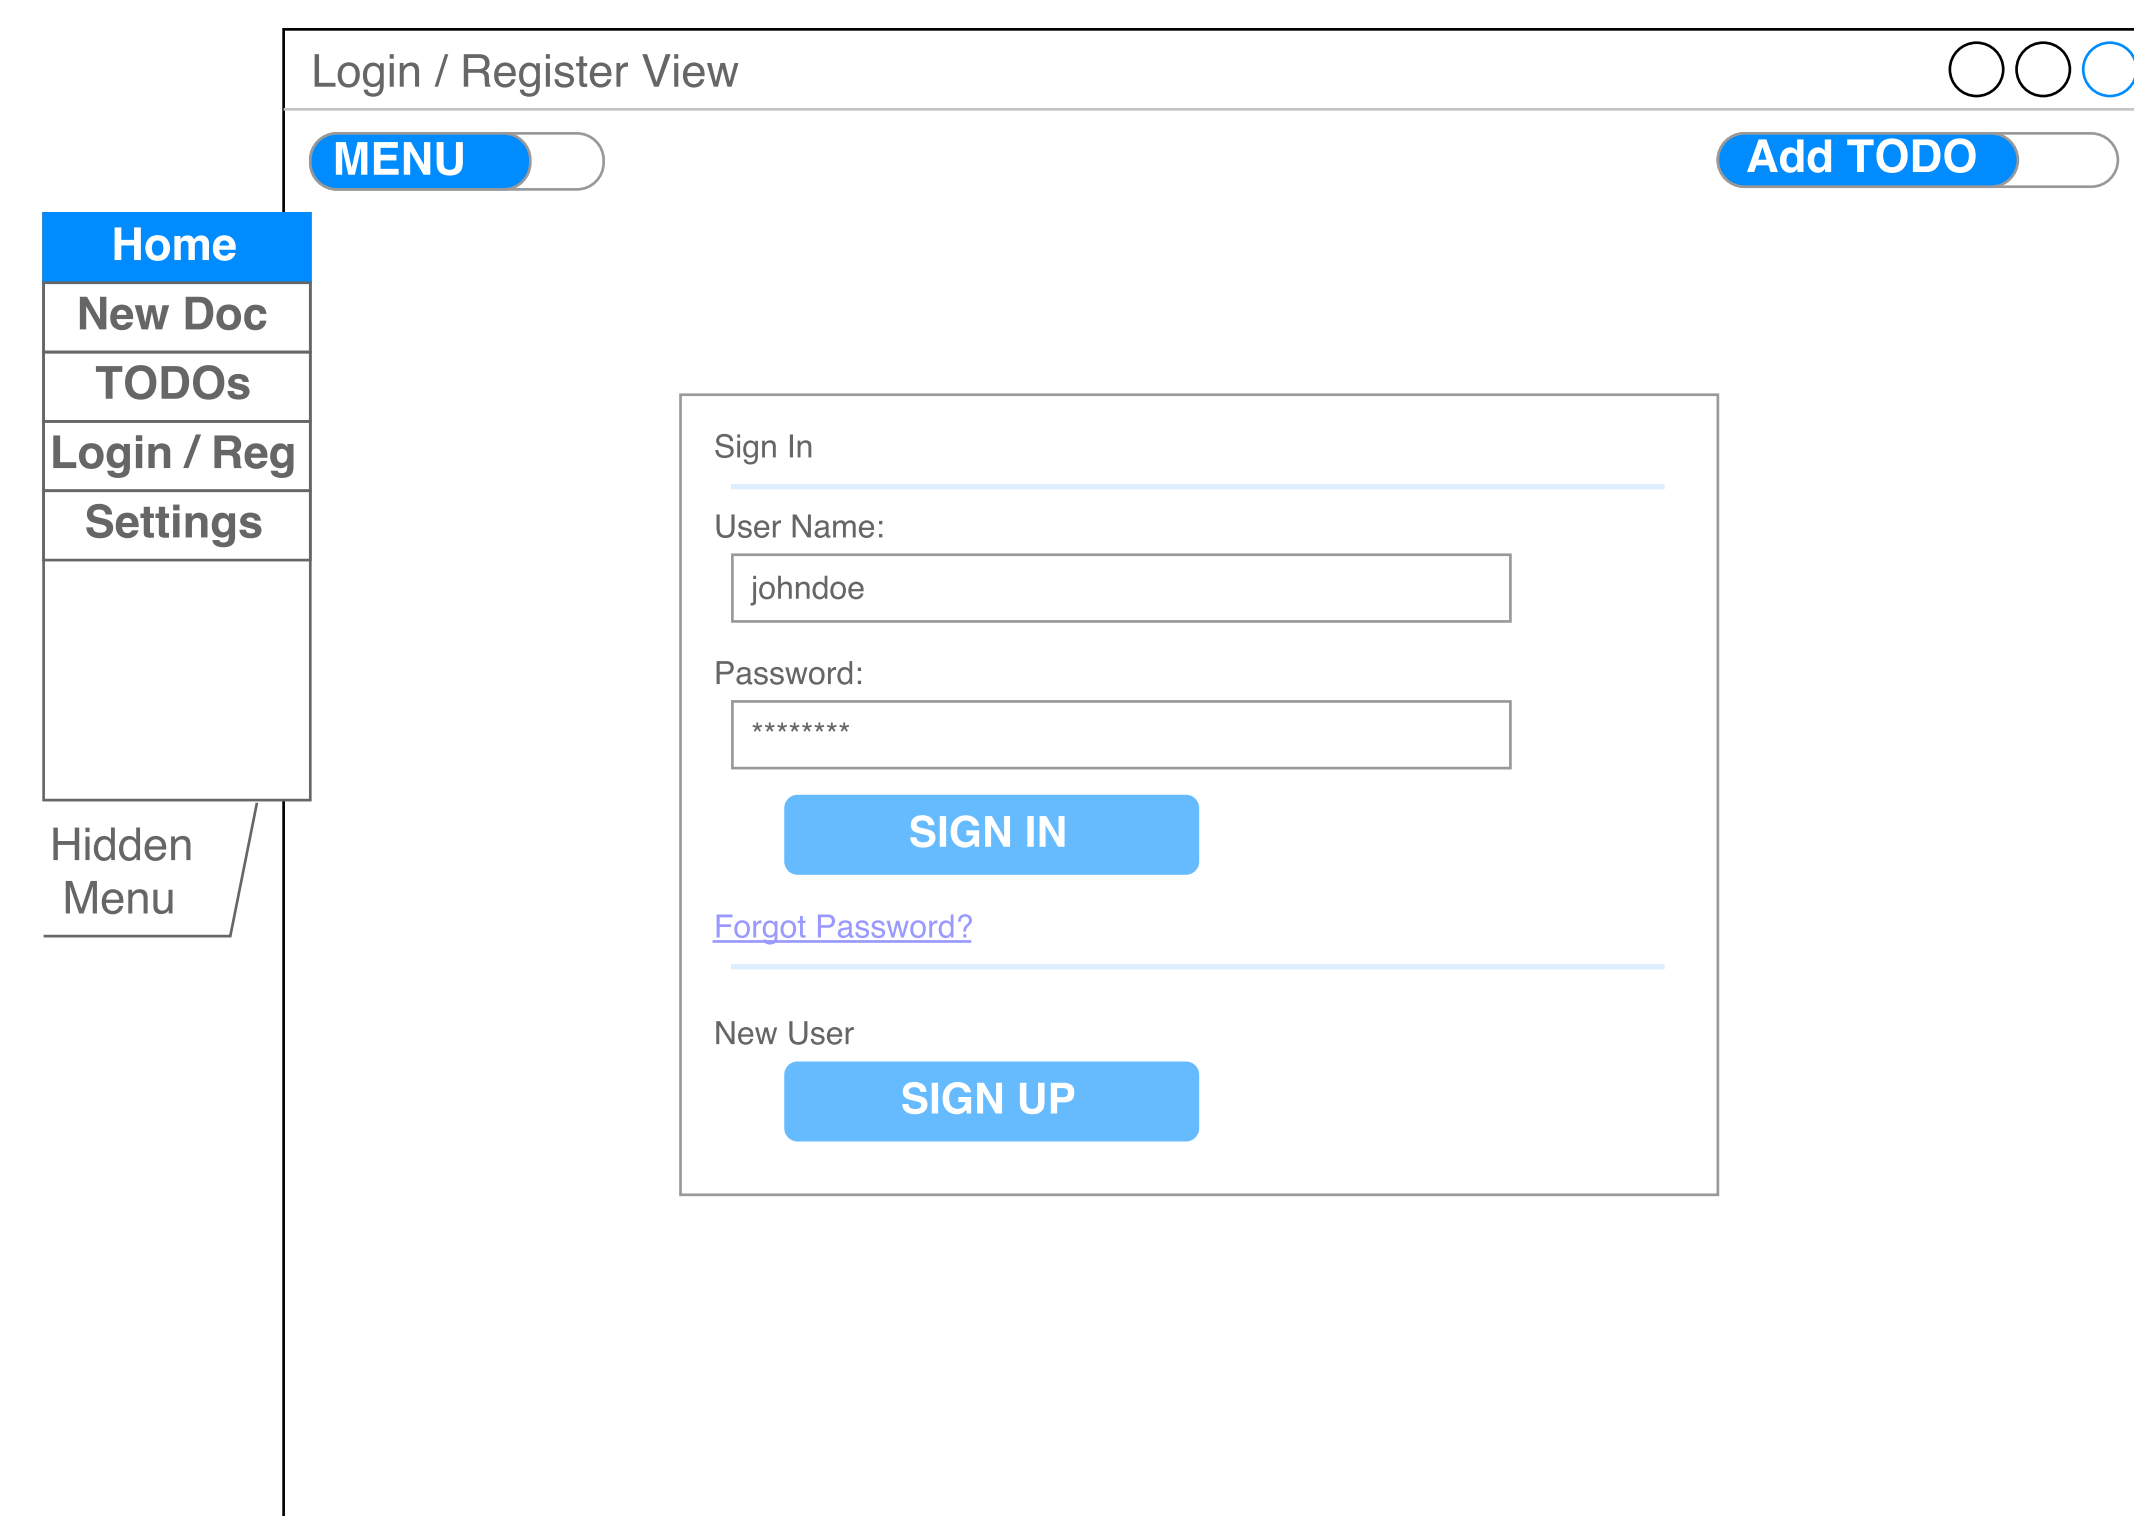

Wireframe - TODOs Page

Wireframe - Settings Page

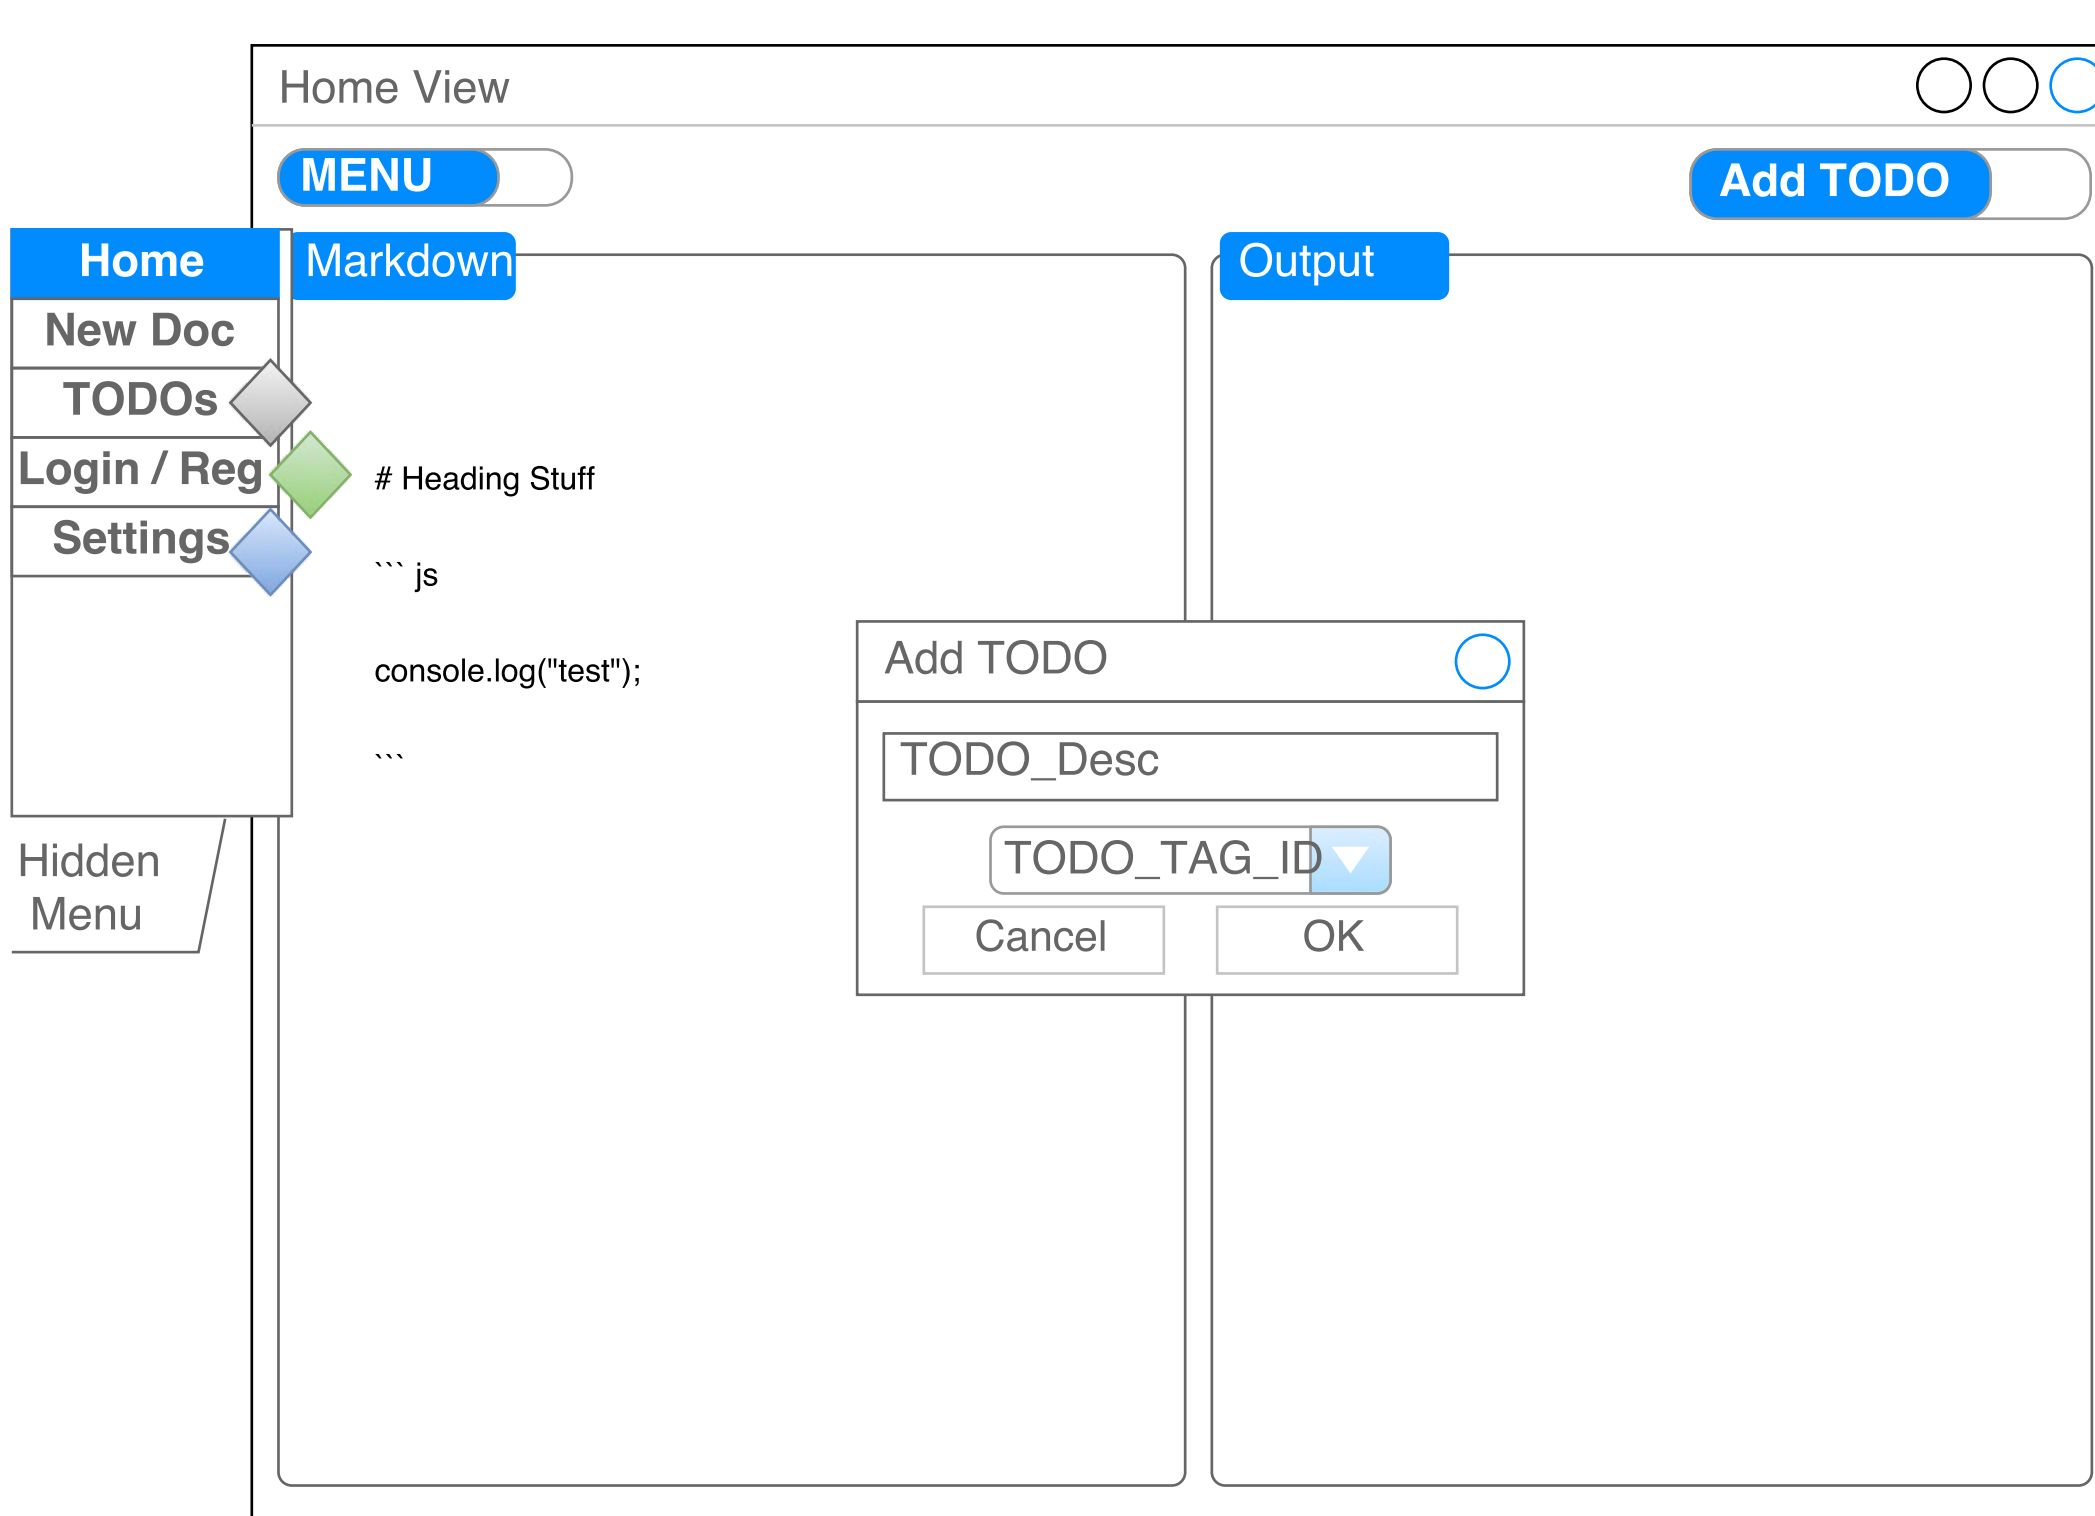

Wireframe - Login / Register Page

Wireframe - Add TODO (Option 1)

Wireframe - Add TODO (Option 2)

Home Page

- without logging into, able to demo the process
- Menu to be hidden, open on toggle click
- Looking for a very simplistic design

Menu

- Have folders / organization within this pane?

Add TODO

- See specific pages for options.
- Potential for a 'TODO View' toggle?

TODO Page

- list TODOs for user, check box for 'done'
- mark all as DONE button (with 'Are you sure?')
- Tagging method for TODO items? (sorting/filtering)

Settings Page

- Code Syntax color (via css)
- light/dark theme?
- ??

Login / Register

- Have both on the same page?
- Passport like functionality with ASP.NET? (social login)
- would be nice to have login/register a hidden menu on the main page or within the menu pane?

Add TODO (Option 1)

- Using the 'Add TODO' toggle button (or keyboard shortcut) display input boxes for the TODO (description and tag) expand into the page.
- Toggle button would allow the user to have these boxes available all the time.

Add TODO (Option 2)

- The 'Add TODO' toggle button (or a shortcut) displays a popup window with input boxes for the TODO (description and tag).